Community Planning and Environmental Dialogue at Jaljulya, Southern Triangle Region 2013 – 15

The community planning and local dialogue project has initiated by AEJI at the Arab towns in the Southern Triangle in 2013 and included socio-environmental planning and community empowerment processes via different activities: Round table meetings with local stakeholders (school staff and parents council, local citizens, environmental planners, landscape architect, local council representatives). In frame of the project AEJI has prepared plan for environmental development in scale of the all village with participation of the community. On local sites, the infrastructure works have completed at 2015 and we have been working with the community on turning the place into Eco-Social-Community Center for all .
